CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—Cruelly mangled, a boy and a girl lay in agony on hospital beds today, innocent victims of a dynamite bombing in front of the home of Judge John P. McGroarty, relentless enemy of the underworld.

The boy, Lee Wilbur Koeppen, 16, and the girl, Mrs. Ada Moyer, a 16-year-old mother, were blown off their feet and hurled to the sidewalk by the blast as they were strolling along the street in front of Judge McGroarty's home last night.

The youth, who playfully kicked a brown package containing the dynamite just before it exploded, was the most seriously injured.

Terribly Mangled

His eyes were gone; both of his legs were shattered; and his entire body was pitifully broken.

"Why can't I see, doctor?" he moaned. "It's all black."

The girl-mother faced the loss of her sight. Her frail body was covered with burns and lacerations.

All available policemen and detectives as well as the state's attorney's investigators, were thrown into the search for the perpetrators of the bombing.

It's hard to "Ripley" some things you hear, and add this one: A reliable watchmaker tells us that the smallest screw which the mechanism of a watch contains is so infinitesimal that 20,000 could be collected in a thimble. The steel they're made from is pressed so fine that one pound alone, were it spread out, would extend eight miles. It takes microscopes to handle them:

And to speak of another time-piece, not exactly of the wrist watch sort, we'd suppose the First Christian church is ready to turn back its tower clock hands once the time comes Saturday. The entire city goes on slow time Sunday.

"Egypt" is what he answers by this faithful dog to whom N. A. Smith, garageman, is master. And "Egypt" is about as black as that. Smith befriended the dog when it was found nearby one day, and ever since he's stayed in the Smith garage.

Within a few days the members of the Needwork Guild of the city will get together to plan the winter's work and prepare for the gathering of new articles for the needy in November. This is the year when the ingathering will be a memorial to the founder, Mrs. John Wood Stewart, and it is anticipated that the ingathering of articles will be one that will show the appreciation of the splendid work of this noble woman.

The canning season is nearing an end and the donation committee of the Almira Home, Mrs. Jemima Foster chairman hopes that the housekeepers of the city have kept the women of the home in mind during the canning period and laid aside a few jars of fruit or vegetables and glasses of jelly and preserves, so the

Government Likely To Ask For Post Office Bids Within Next Two Weeks

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
Special Washington Correspondent,
New Castle News

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 21.—Bids for the construction of the New Castle post office will likely be called within the next two weeks, a spokesman of the treasury department declared today.

The department found some slight corrections to be made in the plans of the post office as prepared by Eckles and Son, New Castle architects, and wired to the architects requesting them to send a representative to Washington to make the necessary alterations.

These changes should be made, blue prints completed and specifications mimeographed within two weeks unless unexpected delay occurs, it was said at the office of the supervising architect.

In the event bids are called for at the end of two weeks, the actual work of clearing the site and preparing for construction should be commenced early in November.

Motorcade Party To Visit Leading Farms; Trip Comes Tuesday

RENTZ' SPEECH TO FEATURE BANQUET

County Farm Agent Harold R. McCulloch had mapped out a complete route today for the Lawrence county bankers to follow when they make their annual excursion into the county's agricultural districts on Thursday afternoon, September 27.

McCulloch's plan is to lead the tourists to four outstanding farms, scattered in different sections, and then to take them to the Liberty garage hall, Harlanburg road, for dinner.

Enthusiasm Evident

Each year the county bank officers and board directors enjoy visits to the farms, and early indications this year point to an even greater interest in next week's inspection trip. Both the bankers and farmers share mutual benefits from their contacts.

Racing Program Gets Under Way At New Castle Fair Today

Good Crowd On Opening Day—Rodeo Program Is Started Today

With the weather man favoring it at every turn, especially with the delightful rain during the night, which was sufficient to lay the dust and cool the air, New Castle Fair today got under way in every department, with one of the finest exhibitions that has been held this year in this section of the country.

Opening day on Tuesday saw the completion of the placing of the various exhibits, not only of cattle, standard bred horses, sheep, swine, chickens, but also of all kinds of merchandise in the Merchants hall and throughout the grounds, farm and housewife products and handicrafts and the arrival of the final contingent of fast harness race horses, bringing the total number of race horses to approximately one hundred.

Good Attendance

In spite of the fact that the big entertainment features, the races and rodeo did not get underway Tuesday, being scheduled for today for the first time, there were many people who paid the admission fees on Tuesday for the sole purpose of looking over the exhibits. They found plenty to interest them.

Three harness horse race events are being held this afternoon. There are some exceptionally fast horses at the track this year and with the track in tiptop condition, they are sure to make fast time. The races

West Pittsburg Road Contract Given Approval

County Commissioners Agree To Have Work Started At Once

CONTRATOR GETTING MATERIAL ON GROUND

County Commissioners report that they have approved the contract for the West Pittsburg road, and that Contractor Challis of Sewickley who was awarded the contract by the state department, is getting his paraphernalia on the grounds preparatory to beginning work.

The work has been held up for the past ten days or more while the county commissioners secured releases. The releases have now all been signed with the exception of less than half a dozen properties, on which it is believed that an agreement will be reached, without the necessity of appointing viewers. If the cases should get into court there are none of them on which the damage will amount to much, commissioners say.

Considerable change in the route to West Pittsburg has been made, according to the survey. The new road will go along the top of the hill west of the intersection of Morris Avenue and the hill. This hill has always been dangerous in cold weather or when the road was covered with ice, on account of the steep embankment on the west side.

The injured boy, according to the information secured by the police authorities was running from the north to the south side of the street and was engaged in eating an orange or fruit of some kind, as he went across, coming from behind a car parked.

Apparently the boy ran directly in front of the Leslie car. Mr. Leslie made every effort to turn to one side to avoid the boy, but was unable to do so because of the proximity

MANY TELEGRAMS
ENCOURAGE LEADER

(International News Service)

BOMBAY, Sept. 21.—Behind the walls of Yeravda jail in Poona, sitting quietly in his cell, Mahatma Gandhi completed 24 hours of his "fast unto death" at noon today.

He told International News Service:

"I feel well. I do not notice any faintness."

He added that he was hopeful that his fast, which he began by chanting a hymn, would accomplish its aim.

"I am an incurable optimist," he said.

The Mahatma, virtually the idol of millions of Indian "untouchables," began the fast in protest against the British electoral plan for granting the "untouchables" separate representation for 20 years.

Many Telegrams

During his waking hours, Gandhi continuously sipped water, a little at a time and read the many telegrams which have been received from admirers, many of the advising him the senders were fasting with him.

These messages touched him visibly and caused him to remark:

"My cry will arise to the throne of the Almighty."

Mass Meetings

Nairobi, India, Sept. 21.—Thousands of Indians held gigantic mass meetings here at Mombasa and in other centers today, offering prayers for the life of Mahatma Gandhi and the success of his fast. Many spent the day fasting.

Committee Set-Up; Plan
Activities

Union township's Parent-Teacher association at its first fall meeting in the Union high school last night organized its committee groups and other business for the ensuing year. A social period came at the close of the formal session.

Opened with "America, the Beautiful" led by Walter W. Duff, Union music supervisor and a prayer by Morris Cox, the meeting then continued with reports of the secretary John Turek, and the treasurer, Huron Smyth and business was then considered.

Committee heads were named as follows: Program, Miss Elma Robinson; membership, Morris Cox and hospitality, Mrs. J. W. Patterson. Mrs. Patterson's aides were also named.

Plans for another registration of mothers and others who will volunteer their time to sewing work to be conducted by the Red Cross, to be held Friday afternoon at Union high from 1 until 5 o'clock, were also discussed. The parents and teachers are cooperating with the Red Cross.

October 18 will be the date for the chapter's next meeting.

Our guess is that Mr. Webster wouldn't recognize the word "intoxicating" after the next Congress finishes defining it.

TELEPHONE GIRLS HONOR RECENT BRIDE

Mrs. John Lewis, bride of recent marriage, was pleasantly surprised Tuesday evening when a group of girls from the Bell Telephone Company assembled in her home at 916 Marshall avenue and tendered her a serenade.

The hours were devoted to music and songs, and a special feature included talks given by Miss Sallie Botham and Miss Cecelia Lewis, missionaries who will leave Friday for their stations at French West Africa. They told in detail and in a very interesting manner, the work done by the natives in Africa.

CONTROL OF THE SENATE

CONTROL of the senate for the short session next winter will remain in doubt until Colorado at a special election names a successor to the late Senator Waterman and until New Jersey goes to the polls in November to fill the unexpired term of Dwight W. Morrow.

Since Senator Waterman's death the line-up in the upper branch of congress has been 47 Republicans, 47 Democrats and one Farmer-Labor member. To obtain a clearcut plurality the Democrats must carry both New Jersey and Colorado, since they cannot count upon support of Farmer-Laborite Shipstead, of Minnesota, in the re-organization of the senate. Senator Shipstead has consistently voted with the Republicans in the matter of organization.

Continuance of last session's slender margin of Republican control in the senate is important to the administration, which may expect no cooperation from that body should the Democrats win control. The administration cannot be said to have enjoyed the fullest cooperation during the last three years but it must retain nominal control to show even a semblance of power in the senate.

So whether the senate during the short session shall be with or against the administration depends upon the voters of New Jersey and Colorado. They will cast the die for the nation.

MOUND BUILDERS IN PENNSYLVANIA

The discovery of forty-nine skeletons of American aborigines near Pittsburgh tends to confirm a theory that the Mound Builders at one time dwelt in Pennsylvania. The inference is not surprising. Their mounds have been found in Ohio and West Virginia. Presumably at some time they occupied the intervening territory, though they left little direct evidence of it, such as the earthworks which have given St. Louis the name of Mound City. G. S. Fisher, the state archaeologist, thinks they lived 10,000 years ago. One of the skeletons indicates the body of a "giant" eight feet tall.

There has long been a dispute whether the Mound Builders were the ancestors of the Indians. Formerly it was supposed they were two distinct races. Later research was inclined to upset the hypothesis. Mr. Fisher belongs to the old school, or perhaps to the modern revival of it. Certainly the Mound Builders showed a higher state of political civilization than was ever manifested by the Red Men. Probably the new find will shed little light on the old controversy, but it is notable for the large size of the collection.

AMERICAN ECONOMICS

There has been no lack of economics in the last three years, though they call it an "economic collapse," but good economics have been scarce, indeed. Every politician has imagined himself an economist though his ideas on the subject smell of the street corner and barber shop. Of course the members of the Illustrious Order of Sons of Rest have solved the problem many times, while political councils have prescribed their cure. But the world has heard very little from the only men who are qualified to diagnose the case, the real economists. It has seemed that everybody knew what to do about the economic situation but the economists.

A recent exception is Dr. John T. Madden, dean of the New York University School of Commerce, who speaks as a recognized economist and who talks sound economics.

He doesn't urge the dole, bonus, national socialization of industry or redistribution of wealth. Rather he prescribes the simple remedy of "healthy pessimism" and "hard work."

By "hard work" he means constructive thought and initiative on the part of industrial leaders, which will lead to work and jobs for the idle. His "healthy pessimism" lies just midway between the transcendental optimism of the prosperity era and the abysmal pessimism of the depression.

Faith in planned production he has none. Capitalistic nations, in his opinion, would not do any better than communistic Russia on the job of social planning by government.

America will let the rest of the world play with the elaborate theories and schemes of the political economists by virtue of the ballot or by force of arms. As for itself, it will try some of Doctor Madden's medicine, which has never failed her in the past and is suited to her peculiar temperament.

PRACTICAL "RELIEF"

A fact recognized by the administration and congress from the beginning of the depression is that public expenditure has its part and a very important one in leading the nation back to prosperity. It is not enough in itself but it helps materially.

Authorization by the administration of $200,000,000 more of public works will create jobs, increase purchasing power, assist industry supplying materials for the work and stimulate general business. And these are the things that promote prosperity.

This new program increases to $750,000,000 the federal funds to be spent during the present fiscal year for unemployment-relief construction, and brings to $2,300,000,000 the total cost of federal public works since the beginning of the depression. This is more than double the normal federal expenditure on such work.

Here is refutation of the complaint that the administration has not recognized the importance of public construction when private construction is at a standstill, a charge heard chiefly in quarters which have advocated unsuccessfully costly public works without a utilitarian value and affording relatively little relief for the jobless.

Informed persons are satisfied that Washington has done the best it could under the circumstances. Only a miracle workers could in one fell swoop balance the budget, provide the last dollar needed for public construction and unemployment relief, and avoid pork-barrel legislation in every form.

There are consolations. The bell-hop now thinks a dime a tip instead of an insult.

In the gay night life of New York, you can see almost everything except a New Yorker.

The Brooklyn gangsters who stole $4,000 worth of olive oil weren't looking for the olive branch.

You'll notice, however, that the gold standard is threatened only during the world's crazy spells.

The "Forgotten Man" has not been forgotten in the Democratic appeals for campaign contributions.

There's a Gate
Between Children and Grown-Ups
You Cannot Pass Through

BY MARSHALL MASLIN

Sometimes it seems that there's a gate—a wide, high, thick gate—between children and grown-ups. Even between children and their parents. The children made no attempt to climb that gate, but the grown-ups are always trying to open it, to peak through, or they pretend that no gate is there.

But it's there. No argument about that.

The children have their own lives. They go their own ways. They live reasonably in their own endeavors. And when they are let alone, as they too often are not, they are happy—even in their quarreling. In "The Golden Age," Kenneth Grahame remembers how he and the other children were often puzzled by the stupidity of adults who could do anything they pleased but had so little fun.

"Indeed," wrote he, "it was one of the most hopeless features in their character (when we troubled ourselves to waste a thought on them; which wasn't often) that, having absolute license to indulge in the pleasures of life, they could get no good of it. They might dabble in the pond all day, hunt the chickens, climb trees in the most uncompromising Sunday clothes; they were free to issue forth and buy gunpowder in the full eye of the sun-free to fire cannons and explode mines on the lawn; yet they never did any one of these things."

The average adult, if my memory of what happens on the other side of the gate is at all accurate, is a most interfering person. He stirs himself, usually, only to forbid; or to insist that the children have a "good time" in a way that appeals to him.

But I remember in my childhood that there was usually some adult around who was easy to be with. He was an old night watchman or he hung around the stables or was an occasional vagrant who made his camp down by the railroad bridge. He talked our talk, we talked his; sometimes he wasn't "quite right"; almost always he was disreputable and friendly. But we liked him even if the grown-ups disapproved of him. He was on our side of the fence. Upon him, the gate had never been closed.

But if I met him now, that old playfellow, we might not have much to say to each other. The gate, perhaps, has closed on me. I fear it has. And he would know it and leave me and go back to the younger people.

The loss, most incalculable, would be mostly mine, and I'd wave him a wistful farewell through The Gate. Envying him, feeling sorry for myself. I hope I would.

Harmonica Band At Terrace Ave. School

If one were looking for a school her career because of illness may have something to do with her insistence that the youngsters be in their places every day. Whatever it is, Terrace turns in a high average of attendance month after month.

No less than twenty nationalities are represented in Terrace Avenue, with probably a few missed at that. The boys and girls for the most part are born in America but the parents come from the following stock, American, English, Irish, Welsh, Italian, Jewish, Polish, Syrian, Slavish, Russian, Bohemian, German, Czech-Slovakian, Magyar, Lithuanian, Armenian, Hungarian, Austrian, Greek, Jugo-Slavonian, Negroes, Coratian.

All-American

But in spite of the heterogeneous background of the youngsters the school is all-American. Not a one of the youngsters but is proud of the fact that he is an American and this fact is more appreciated perhaps because of the fact that the parents of the youngsters know other lands.

Terrace Avenue School has 276 pupils at the present time and the average attendance of the school for years has either led the schools of the city or been tied for it. Miss Anna R. Perry, the principal believes in regular attendance and the fact that she has missed but one day in

800 miles at 112.5 miles per hour

OL STAMINA, oil economy with new Mobil oil—these have just received new dramatic proof in Ralph de Palma's record-smashing run at Lake Muroc, California. For 800 miles—De Palma's car covered the desert course at terrific speeds, averaging 112.5 miles per hour!

Not only did the new Mobil oil give perfect engine protection at speeds that at times exceeded 120 miles an hour, but oil consumption was actually 50% lower than the engineers supervising the test originally estimated!

When taken down, De Palma's engine was in perfect condition. Bear-

Reunion Of Leesburg Schools Draws Throng

The reunion of the old North and South Leesburg schools held at the Millburn Grange Hall Saturday proved a very enjoyable affair to a large number of pupils, teachers and friends.

The delicious picnic dinner was one of the outstanding enjoyable features, and the spirit of friendliness and good will in renewing old acquaintances seemed to prevail throughout the day.

In addition to the regular program, speeches were made by many returning pupils and teachers, one of the most worthy of mention was that of N. O. Allen, of Volant, a former teacher of North Leesburg, who is in his 80th year and who has lived all his life just outside the hamlet of Leesburg. Mr. Allen, after finishing the work in the public schools went to Edinboro three terms when began his teacher's career at North Leesburg.

A number of his pupils were almost as old as himself, if not as large. Among them were C. B. Smith who at the present is living a close neighbor to Mr. Allen and who is reckoning about four years of his age and who accompanied him to the reunion. A few other pupils were Charley Hill of Cleveland, who has been extensively engaged in the printing business and who is widely known in Mercer County.

E. E. Smith, a pupil of Mr. Allen, who attended Edinboro and the old Pine Grove Academy and a one time teacher made an interesting speech.

J. C. Offutt one of the five surviving members of the first North Leesburg School related some very interesting facts connected with the old school life.

Walter Hill, who is well up in years and one time pupil of North Leesburg, gave an interesting talk. Mrs. Artman, a former teacher of South Leesburg, made remarks. A very interesting letter written by Charles Hill was read by his brother.

Warren Hill also read some very interesting historical facts.

Another outstanding feature of the reunion was the attendance of the Jesse Smith family, beginning with the oldest as follows, C. B. of Volant, Mrs. D. W. Uber, of North Liberty, E. E. of Edinboro, Mrs. J. G. Offutt and Mrs. Sam Oakes of Leesburg and H. W. Smith of Youngstown.

Officers for the ensuing year were as follows: President, I. J. Armstrong; vice-president, H. C. Hunter; secretary, Mrs. Chas. Rutherford; treasurer, Warren Hill.

Guests were present from Jamestown, Erie, Warren and other points in Ohio, New Castle, Grove City, North Liberty, Plaingrove, Edinburg, Pulaski, Polk, New Wilmington, Mercer and Sharon.

Business Man Known Here, Dies

GREENVILLE, Pa., Sept. 21.—Thomas C. Gibson, dean of Greenville business men, died last evening at his home in Main street.

He was prominent in fraternal organizations, including Zem Zem Temple at Erie and Scottish Rite at New Castle.

Mr. Gibson's wife passed away May 11 of this year, following the death of her son, Howard, by two years. His survivors include his son Frank, of Greenville, and a brother, B. D. Gibson of East Aurora, N. Y.

No Democratic presidential nominee except Wilson, in 1912 the year of the great split, has carried Oregon, but Gov. Roosevelt invaded it today with assurances from state leaders that this year it is Democratic territory.

In Seattle last night Gov. Roosevelt addressed a capacity audience of 12,000 people in the Civic auditorium, with additional thousands jamming the ball park outside.

He was introduced by Mayor John F. Dore, who was elected this spring as Republican, but who declared last night that he "belonged to that great army of progressive Republicans who are sick and tired of the kind of leadership we have in the Republican party."

ASKS PROTECTION FROM SPEEDERS

H. E. Timmer of 320 West Grant street, last night complained to the police concerning the habit of many motorists in speeding on Grant street. He expressed the opinion that it could and should be stopped.

Mr. Timmer stated that he had two children going to school and they were compelled to cross this and other streets while on the way to school and he fears for their safety every time that they go to school.

THOUSAND QUARTS

With over a hundred men and women at work in the George Washington, Ben Franklin, and Mahoning schools today, the big cooperative canning project, inaugurated by the Mayor's Relief Committee, Federation of Women's Clubs, Garden Club, and Red Cross got under way this morning.

In each of the three buildings, the men and women got down to work in earnest after the preliminary organization details had been perfected, and soon huge kettles filled with apples, peaches, and tomatoes were simmering on the stoves, ready to be placed in tin cans and glass jars, donated by the American Can Company and other interested citizens.

Each day, as many men and women as can be accommodated, will start working early in the morning and will put up their allotment. At the end of the day, they will be given their pro-rated share of the materials canned, while one half of the number of cans put up will be put in the larder of the Mayor's Relief Committee for use next winter.

It is expected to can more than was put up last year, when over 6,000 quarts of various fruits and vegetables were canned.

Women from various Parent-Teacher Associations are aiding in the work as supervisors.

ecutive until he has compiled fully with the conditions set forth in the acts creating the corporation and defining its powers and duties.

President's Answer

The President, in answer to Gov. Pinchot's telegram demanding action on the loan before Friday or a personal appointment with Hoover, pointed out that the R. F. C. is an "independent agency" set up by congress with sharply defined direction for its own conduct by its directors. He pointedly told the Pennsylvania governor that those directors have the sole power of granting or refusing loans.

The attitude of officials of the R. F. C. is not one of antagonism against Pinchot or Pennsylvania, it was stressed today. They repeated their position originally outlined when the difficulty over Pennsylvania's application arose—that the situation is a stalemate unless Governor Pinchot can furnish the complete data which must be submitted before any loan can be approved. It was pointed out that no other governor and no other state has been unable to comply with this practice, which, they said, must remain a rigid one under the express provisions of the law.

Politics Not Entering

It was insisted today by R. F. C. officials that politics did not enter in the least into the Pennsylvania situation, so far as the corporation was concerned. With men of widely differing political faiths comprising the board of directors, they said, the statement in the President's telegram of reply must be given full force and effect. The President wired:

"The board is a non-partisan body of eminent, patriotic and sympathetic men. They are engaged in unbiased investigation of every application. They are giving earnest and full consideration to information supplied to them and endeavoring to extend every aid to distress and proved need within their

To Hold Final Registration On New Castle Plan

Organization Is Prepared To Go Forward With Sewing Project In District

ALREADY WORKING IN SEVENTH WARD

Final registration in a majority of the districts of the city, where women desiring assistance in the furnishing of clothing for their families under the New Castle Plan, evolved by local club women, will be held Friday morning from 9 to 12 o'clock.

The schools where registration will be held will be the Oak Street, Terrace Avenue, Rose Avenue, Croton, Lincoln and Garfield, North Street, Union High School, Sunny Side and Pollock Avenue.

The West Side school has completed a fine job of registering the women in that district, questionnaires being sent to the parent through the children, which asked the women if they desired to assist in making garments for their own need, or if they did not need clothing themselves, whether they would aid others, number in the family, etc.

Seventh Ward Started.

The Seventh Ward district has also been well organized and sewing is being done each day, where garments are being made.

Registrars who will look after the work of registering the women who want to sew, on Friday, will find their books all ready for them at the Red Cross office.

Work will be started in other districts this week in addition to the Seventh Ward, where the sewing is already under way, and as soon as the supply of flour and sugar sacks is exhausted, work will be started on the Red Cross cloth, much of which has already been received.

The girls in the Senior High and Union Township high school are also at work assisting in the project. They are making layettes from the

The interest they are taking has been very pleasing to the committee in charge of the sewing project, which has been developed along a highly systematic plan in this city, and the women who are at the head of the movement are pleased to refer to it as "The New Castle Plan."

Many Cooperating.

The Singer Sewing Machine Company has contributed the use of a room, equipped with 25 electric sewing machines, where women from the various districts may come and sew, in addition to the three local school buildings.

The local school authorities have donated the use of the George Washington Junior high school home economics room, the art room at the Administration Building, and room in the Mahoningtown school in the seventh ward. The sewing machines from the Ben Franklin school are being moved to the Administration building.

Work is also well under way in the parochial schools of the city, and they are fast using up the sacking material contributed by various business firms and individuals, to whom the women in charge are indebted. Appreciation is also expressed by the committee to those who have donated thread, buttons, binding materials, and colored material for trimming the dresses.

The movement to organize the women of the city on the cooperative sewing plan was inaugurated by the Federation of Women's Clubs through their Community Service Department, of which Mrs. Harry Marshall, Sr., is chairman. The assistance of the Red Cross and Parent-Teachers Associations was enlisted and they responded most heartily.

Women Help Themselves.

Under the plan each woman who is in need of help in equipping members of her family with clothing, registers with the committee, and when the project gets under way, will be permitted to make the number of garments she is in need of, provided she makes a like number to be placed in storage and given out through the Lawrence County Chapter of the American Red Cross, and the Parent-Teachers Associations, to those who may be in need.

Right now, there is a great need for white thread, either number 50 or 60, and buttons, binding material, and paper sacks. It will take an immense amount of thread to sew up the 30,000 yards of cloth which will be furnished through the Lawrence County Chapter Red Cross. These materials may be left at the Red Cross office, 17 South Mercer street.

In addition to those previously mentioned as assisting in the project, the Women's Aid of the Pennsylvania R. R. has offered the use of sewing machines and their own personal assistance.

Within the course of a few more days now, sewing machines will be humming, and yards and yards of dress materials of various kinds, furnished through the National Red Cross, will be turned into fine dresses, shirts, and under garments.

It is one of the biggest relief projects ever undertaken in the city, perhaps outrivalling for the time, the work carried on during the war when the Red Cross workers sewed on bandages, etc., for use in the hospitals and by the soldiers in camp and at the battle front.

Plan Honor Court For Scout Troops; Feature Promised

The regular September Court of Honor award session of scout troops in the New Castle district will be held Thursday evening at 8 o'clock in the First Christian church. Rev. G. S. Bennett, chairman of the court, will preside.

This session will be varied somewhat on account of a diploma presentation to be made to the local leaders who recently completed a training course in "Troop Program Planning"; sixteen men attending this; and several of these also qualifying for the "advanced" grade.

Men trained for troop leadership always make their time count for more when they are with their troops.

GOV. LA FOLLETTE LOSES IN WISCONSIN PRIMARY

Insurgents Lose Battle In State

Long Sway Of La Follette's In Wisconsin Seems To Have Come To End

CONSERVATIVES ARE APPARENT WINNERS

(International News Service)

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 21.—La Follette Progressivism, long dominant in the public affairs of Wisconsin, appeared destined to defeat today in one of the most heated political conflicts ever enacted in the state's history.

Tabulation of ballots in yesterday's primary elections was piling up an ever-increasing lead for former Governor Walter J. Kohler in his battle for the Republican gubernatorial nomination against Governor Philip F. La Follette, youthful son of the late "Fighting Bob."

Kohler Has Big Lead.

Early today Kohler, leading the Conservative Insurrection against the La Follette regime, enjoyed an advantage of more than 40,000 votes over his adversary. In 1196 of the state's 2,899 precincts, Kohler had amassed 160,326 votes as against 117,965 for the incumbent.

The Progressive faction was trailing likewise in the struggle for the Republican senatorial nomination. John B. Chapple, militant Anti-La Follette newspaper editor of Ashland, accumulated 100,724 ballots in 1,014 precincts as against 95,216 for Senator John J. Blaine. Progressive seeking renomination.

Democrats of Wisconsin registered an increase in strength in their primaries with a notable rise in the number of voters. But members of that party cast only one vote to every seven in the Republican contests. In latest returns Mayor A. G. Schmedeman of Madison was holding a comfortable edge over his two opponents, Leo P. Fox of Chilton and William B. Rubin of Milwaukee, in the race for the Democratic nomination for governor.

Hoover Supporter Wins

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 21.—The house of LaFollette, dominant in Wisconsin politics for a generation, was defeated by a wide margin in yesterday's primary, according to incomplete returns today.

Former Gov. Walter J. Kohler, conservative manufacturer and supporter of President Hoover, held a lead of nearly 70,000 votes over Gov. Phil LaFollette for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

Out of the state's 2,899 precincts, 2,197 gave; Kohler, 301,163; LaFollette, 231,395.

Another member of the "progressive" camp for whom defeat seemed inevitable was the veteran U. S. Senator John J. Blaine. With three-fourths of the state's precincts reporting, he was 15,000 votes behind John B. Chapple, the fighting editor of Ashland.

NEW OFFICERS TO HAVE CHARGE

ELKINS W. Va., Sept. 21.—His left arm hanging only by a few shreds of flesh, Walter Pase, 35, miner, of Thomas, held it in place while he walked two miles from the Davis Coal and Coke Company mine to Thomas to get medical treatment at four a. m. today.

Doctors said Pase saved his life by keeping the wound from bleeding too profusely.

The miner was brought to the Elkins City hospital and the arm was amputated. Pase was injured when his arm was caught in a conveyor belt.

"Kiki" Cuyler Smashes Triple With Bases Choked And Cubs Win 5 To 2

PIRATES FOLD UP BEFORE CHAMPS

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Sports Writer

New York, Sept. 21.—Hazen (Kiki) Cuyler, handsome speed merchant of the Chicago Cubs, is likely to be one of the heroes of the coming world series between the Bruins and the Yankees.

Cuyler was the man of the hour yesterday, accounting for four of Chicago's runs as the Bruins beat the second-place Pirates 5 to 2 in the first game of a double-header, and clinched the National League pennant.

Hit Wins Game.

In the third inning he doubled, took third and scored Chicago's second run on a passed ball. In the seventh, with the score tied, the bases full and the count three and two, Kiki cracked a triple that gave the Cubs the game and the pennant.

Guy Bush pitched and held the Pirates to eight hits. In the nightcap, the Cubs didn't try very hard and got only three hits off Heine Meine, Pittsburgh winning 5 to 0.

The Brooklyn Dodgers tightened their hold on third place with Lefty Clark hanging up his 19th victory by beating the Phillies 3 to 1, thanks to homers by Stripp and Wright.

Mel Ott tied Chuck Klein for the leadership in the National League home run derby, clouting his 37th and 38th round-trippers of the season as the Giants massacred Boston, 13 to 3.

Tex Carleton yielded only five hits and pitched the Cards to a 3 to 1 decision over Cincinnati. St. Louis remaining tied with New York for sixth place.

Indiana Win Two.

Monte Weaver, Washington's brilliant Freshman pitcher, hung up his 22nd victory of the year, holding the Red Sox to four hits and winning 4 to 1.

Cleveland moved to within three games of the third-place Senators by taking both ends of a twin bill with the Browns, 5 to 2, and 11 to 2. Joe Vosmik collected six hits during the festivities.

Other teams were idle.

New Castle Will Play Four Games In Class AA Loop

Twelve High School Football Teams Compose Class AA Division This Year

New Castle High school football team will show off on the first of their four Class AA games with the strong Charleroi team on the night of Friday, September 30. New Castle has four major contests to play this year, namely Charleroi, New Kensington, Washington and Turtle Creek.

This Class AA business was referred to by the W. P. I. A. L. fathers as a means of determining the championships without the usual hue and cry heard each year. The team that slides through that tough Class AA schedule undefeated should be given some kind of recognition.

The following twelve teams comprise the division—New Castle, Charleroi, Turtle Creek, Washington, Norwin, Greensburg, Clairton, Monessen, McKeesport, Wilkinsburg, Jeannette and New Kensington.

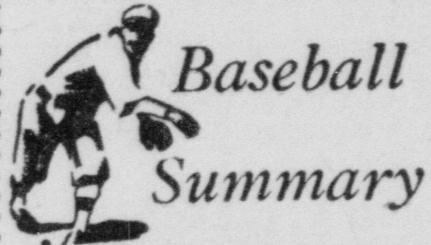

Some of the teams lined up five major contests and others selected four of the Class AA games. It will be interesting to note how the championship awards will be judged on the relative merits in view of the difference in the number of division games carded. For instance should New Castle go undefeated in their four games, and Washington for instance win all their five games, how will they arrive at the conclusion, as to which is the champion?

Titular Series May End Thursday

Scarrazzo Needs Only One More Game To Clinch County Title

Scarrazzo and Mahoning will play the fourth game of the seven game series for the championship of Lawrence County at Centennial field at 5:30 p. m. Thursday.

Scarrazzo has won three consecutive games and if they should take the fourth and deciding game on Thursday will meet Beaver Valley league champions Saturday afternoon.

CANGEY CLAIMS DECISION UNFAIR

Mahoning A. A. Manager Accepts Umpire-In-Chief Decision As Final

Nick Cangey, manager of Mahoning A. A. today charged that the decision of the Twilight Baseball League commission is not only unfair to Mahoning but also to the fans of the city. It is reported Mahoning will not abide by the decision of the commission.

Cangey recites the incidents that occurred in his letter which follows:

New Castle, Pa., Sept. 21, 1932.

Ed Fritz
Sports Editor
The News

Dear Sir:

In regards to the decision made by the commission of the Twilight League I wish to state that it was very unfair not only to the Mahoning A. A. baseball club but to the fans of the city. It is reported Mahoning will not abide by the decision of the commission.

It is absurd to think that the commissioners would rule that the game should be played starting from the inning the play took place, which was the sixth.

Ben Price, umpire-in-chief, is an umpire who has officiated in New Castle and Ohio for a number of years. He read to the commissioners the rule pertaining to that particular play which was an illegal pitch.

The commissioners ignored Price's ruling and rendered a decision in favor of Hillsville.

The commissioners ordered the game played over for the good of baseball and the fans but on the contrary I would think it would be for the good of everybody to penalize such teams as Hillsville for walking off a ball field and leaving the fans disappointed. In my opinion the fans should be protected against such teams.

The Mahoning A. A. has participated in 89 some games this season and has never walked off the field, right or wrong.

Umpire Ben Price decision is final. He awarded the game to Mahoning 9 to 0 due to the fact that Hillsville refused to finish the game.

(Signed)

NICK CANGEY
Cangey submits the result of the games played between Mahoning and Hillsville this season. Before the series started Mahoning won three games from Hillsville. Each team had won two games in the series when the play ceased.

Castle Doubles To Start Today Frankie Frey

Francis Sage Wins From Vern Carr In Tennis

Singles

Doubles play will start this evening in the Castle Tennis League tournament at five o'clock with R. Grove and T. Jones opposing E. McClymonds and R. Woods.

Only one singles match was played last evening, Francis Sage defeated Vern Carr 6-1, 6-3. Darkness caused the Connolly-Honkman match to be postponed until this afternoon. Dan Carroll meets Allan Morrow at 6:30 p. m.

Thursday's play calls F. Doss and H. Levine vs Reiher and A. Brincko at 5:30 p. m.

The winner of the Carroll-Morrow match meets Francis Sage at 6:30 p. m.

DEVLIN TO TACKLE 'CRAFTY' OPPONENT

There'll be plenty of punching when Homer Warder tackles the tough Frankie Frey in one of the preliminary battles Monday night when World War Veterans show Willie Davies vs. Johnny Devlin in the main bout, scheduled for 10 rounds at Castle Bowl.

Frey has the edge in experience but in science Homer ranks ahead of Frey. Each has milled in enough encounters to furnish the fans with plenty of action and no doubt the fans will see it.

Vito Mancino is reported to tip-top shape for Martin Toukanon of Cleveland. The lightweights are docketed for a preliminary tilt, likewise Teddy Mancino, Pittsburgh and Pee Wee Carney, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Billy Joyce, formerly of Youngstown and Frankie Stellmack, veteran of Cleveland will clash in the semi-final. Frankie was on the under side of his last bout until he laid low Lefty Arnold.

Devlin will be the favorite when the bell rings for the main bout owing to his experience and class. Devlin, a youngster, has fought professionally about 35 times and is said to have a punch and lots of fire.

Wee Willie is training at Charlie's and Devlin is doing his working out with Johnny Banco, Ray Ritchie and other Bob LaFata managed boys.

The first bell will ring at 8:15 p. m. The show is sponsored by the World War veterans of Lawrence county. It will be the first of several shows which they plan to stage at the bowl this fall.

BOYD DRILLING GRIDDLERS HARD

Union will present new backfield against Evans City Saturday

BOYD DRILLING GRIDDLERS HARD

Union High football team will be a different looking team Saturday afternoon, according to Coach Dave Boyd.

The Union will have a lot of new faces when they take the field against Evans City High at Scotland Lane.

Coach Boyd reports that his line is playing better than it did Friday night against New Castle, the boys are changing faster and tackling better. There is big improvement.

The backfield men have not done anything this fall.

Otherwise, the catching is better with the addition of Hemley and the pitching is at least as sound with the addition of Warneke and Tinning, and assuredly the coming of Herman and Jurges had made for a cleaner defense in the infield.

BETTER BALANCED

The team is better balanced, and work better on the offense. The defense is more evenly balanced with the shifted lineup. The entire squad is in fine shape for the Evans City game, as not one of the Union men suffered any injuries in the New Castle game.

The strength of Evans City High is not known, but Coach Boyd is not taking any chances, and there will be no let up in the Union drills this week.

Union wants to win that game Saturday and they are going to fight hard.

Says Controller System Works Fine

County Commissioner Conner Gives Out Interview In Mercer

According to a story published in the Sharon Herald A. E. Conner, president of the Lawrence County Board of County Commissioners, is quoted as stating that the present controller system is working out advantageously in Lawrence county. He stated that the system was approved by the entire board and that they were convinced that it was the only manner of conducting the financial affairs of the county. "Although it has only been established a few months" Mr. Conner says, "it has proven its worth over the county auditors, as the financial standing is known at all times."

Conner said that the Lawrence county Commissioners had visited Beaver County before adopting the controller system and they were informed that the controller system was very satisfactory and that before they had it a year they would learn its real worth.

Salvage Ships Are After Gold Coins In Delaware Bay

Will Seek To Locate $10,000,000 In Gold Coins At Bottom Of Bay Since 1788

LEWES, Del., Sept. 21.—Two salvage ships tossed and rolled in Delaware Bay awaiting cessation of choppy waters to begin an attempt to recover $10,000,000 of gold coin in the hold of H. M. Sloop of War "Debraak" which sank one mile off Cape Henlopen lighthouse after plundering two Spanish galleons in 1788.

The salvage boats are equipped with modern diving gear and are aided by an ancient chart of the Delaware breakwater, believed the oldest in existence.

Later in the week, a large marine derrick is to be brought to the scene. Several attempts have been made to raise the hull of the "Debraak." All have failed.

MUST PAY TAX

HARRISBURG, Sept. 21.—Under the new sales tax law, hotels, restaurants, cafes, and all other eating places, must pay a one per cent tax on their gross receipts from all sales on food and meals, but not on their receipts for rooms. The same rule applies to rooming houses which serve meals, and to tourist rooming places, tourist cabins and camp grounds which serve only breakfasts. There are no exceptions.

RECOVERED CARS

HARRISBURG, Sept. 21.—Recovery of 69 stolen motor vehicles was reported to the bureau of motor vehicles in August. Their total estimated value was $22,552. Fifty of the vehicles had been abandoned by thieves. Three were found in the possession of thieves, 14 were out-of-state cars found in Pennsylvania, and two were Pennsylvania cars found in other states.

Committee Visits Commissioners On Proposed Contract

Suggestions Made That Records Be Copied By Hand Or Vault Built

A committee representing taxpayers called on the county commissioners Tuesday afternoon with reference to the awarding of a contract for transcribing the records in the register and recorder and prothonotary's office.

The committee had several propositions to present. One of them was that instead of the commissioners having the records photographed that they be copied by hand. It was claimed that the work would give employment to idle persons who are competent to do the job, and that the cost would not be as much as to have them photographed.

The committee had several propositions to present. One of them was that instead of the commissioners having the records photographed that they be copied by hand. It was claimed that the work would give employment to idle persons who are competent to do the job, and that the cost would not be as much as to have them photographed.

The commissioners talked the matter over with the committee, but did not give any indication of what will be done.

As for copying the records by hand it would require very exacting work, and the county would still be confronted with the proposition of a safe place to store such voluminous records, whereas photographs can be stored in a very small space.

The vault proposition might be all right so far as some of the books we are concerned, but there are hundreds of them which are in daily use, and it would in reality take an immense vault to store them.

Nothing definite has been done. As the matter now stands, advertisements for bids on photographing the records will be taken if it is decided to go ahead.

Approve Plan For Distribution Of State Relief Fund

Philadelphia Moves To Break Up Costly Habit Of Frolicksome Persons

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 21.—Frolicksome persons with a distorted sense of humor, who turn in fire alarms just to thrill at the sight of fire engines speeding down the street with sirens shrieking and rubber-coated men clinging to the sides cost Philadelphia $250,000 a year.

That estimate was arrived at by Ross B. Davis, chief engineer of the fire bureau, and by the fire insurance patrol.

Every time an engine leaves a fire station, the city's expenses mount.

"The average cost of answering a false alarm may safely be put at $150 or more," said Chief Davis.

Last year, 1,673 false alarms were turned in, according to Davis.

As many as 18 pieces of apparatus are called out on some fire alarms. Considering gasoline, oil depreciation, accidents and the men's salaries, $150 "cannot seem excessive as an estimate," Chief Davis added.

"However, $150 is only a rough approximation, as the fire bureau hasn't the money to hire clerks to keep books not vitally necessary," continued the chief.

"Although every precaution is taken to avoid accidents, they do happen. Several have been fatal. Before I went on my vacation a firefighter was injured in a collision while answering a false alarm and he is still in the hospital."

Conner said that the Lawrence county Commissioners had visited Beaver County before adopting the controller system and they were informed that the controller system was very satisfactory and that before they had it a year they would learn its real worth.

Presbyterians To Attend Tonight

Will Be Special Delegation At Tabernacle Tent Revival Service

EVANGELIST WILL SPEAK ON FAITH

Tent Is Filled For Service On Tuesday Evening Ministers Sing

Presbyterians and Reformed
Presbyterians will fill the center block of seats this evening in the Tabernacle Tent on South Mill street, where a series of city-wide revival services are being held, beginning at 7:45 each evening.

Dr. P. W. Philpott, evangelist will take "Faith for the Family" as his subject this evening.

The tabernacle tent on South Mill street was filled Tuesday evening for the third service in the series of city-wide revivals being held in the city. By the time the service begins all available seats are in use, including the choir loft.

The Methodists, Free Methodists and Nazarenes of the city filled the center section of seats Tuesday evening.

A. W. McKee, song leader, and his marvelous choir, gathered from all churches of the city, opened the meeting with a half-hour of inspirational singing, the feature of this period being the number sung by the ministers of the city, who occupy seats on the platform at each service. The rendition of "Wonderful Grace of Jesus" by the choir was most marvelous.

Dr. S. L. Maxwell, who has been pastor of Epworth Methodist church the past six years, but is leaving this week to take up pastoral duties in the Grace Church, Oil City, offered the evening prayer.

Dr. E. A. Crooks, pastor of the Reformed Presbyterian church, announced prayer meetings for Thursday morning in the homes of the city; and a prayer service each day at noon in the Central Presbyterian church, with the ministers of the city leading.

Sermon On Prayer
Dr. P. W. Philpott, the evangelistic speaker, who brings a forceful message each evening, talked to the vast crowd Tuesday night on "The Problem of Unanswered Prayer," saying that prayer was a privilege and a power.

He took his scripture reading from the eleventh chapter of St. Luke and his text for the discourse from Jeremiah 33:3. "Call unto me and I will answer thee, and show thee great and mighty things, which thou knowest not." He stated that prayer is a solemn, sacred duty, and the neglect of this duty produces sin. He stated that a revival could not be created by an evangelistic speaker and singer, but it must come from God, through the prayers of the people.

In speaking of unanswered prayer he further said that prayers are unanswered if we pray for a good thing, but with a wrong motive; if we are insincere in our prayers; if we have iniquity in our hearts when we pray, giving fervent illustrations of each point as it was stressed.

He closed his talk with the statement that God discriminates in answering prayer and sometimes delays the answer, but does not deny.

As a fitting climax to the sermon the meeting closed with Mr. McKee singing "Sometime, Somewhere."
